During spring, the Ganhaizi seems yellow, compare with the red leaves and white snow mountain, and seems very wonderful. (If weather allows, we will go to Huanglong Gou. This scenic spot is the result of the formations of talpatate which give a special color to ponds and beaches. Together with high mountains, snow covered peaks, valleys, waterfalls, lakes and forests, these talpatates look especially marvelous. Among the various unique and wild scenes of the scenic area, one of the most eye-catching is the Huanglong (Yellow Dragon) Ravine. The ravine, located at the foot of the Xuebao Peak in the Minshan Mountain, is 3.6 kilometers long and 30-170 meters wide. In the sunshine, the ravine looks like a golden dragon winding its way through the forest. In the ravine are a variety of talpatate scenes, such as talpatate ponds, beaches, waterfalls, caves and dykes. However, the 3400 colorful talpatate ponds in different shapes, sizes and colors are the most attractive.)
